Charter Of The United Nations And Statute Of The International Court Of Justice

Synopsis

The Charter of the United Nations was signed in 1945 by 51 countries representing all continents, paving the way for the creation of the United Nations on 24 October 1945. The Statute of the International Court of Justice forms part of the Charter. The aim of the Charter is to save humanity from war; to reaffirm human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person; to proclaim the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small; and to promote the prosperity of all humankind. The Charter is the foundation of international peace and security. --This text refers to the Kindle Edition edition.

Customer Reviews

I was ignorant of how the United Nations operates; therefore, I decided to purchase this small pocket-size text. I made a good decision. The UN will continue to play a vital role in world affairs. In light of the civil war taking place in Syria and the supposed use of chemical weapons in that country (President Al-Assad is accused of ordering the use of chemical weapons on rebel forces), and Iran's nuclear program (Iran is accused of developing nuclear weapons. In my view, as a sovereign nation, Iran has the right to have a nuclear program), one needs to understand how the UN Security Council operates. Russian continues to be an ally of Iran on the Security Council. Purchase this text!

Wirh the current desire to use the UN for non-traditional Roles any citizen following Presidential activities should have a copy handy.JIM

This is a really small pamphlet with a slightly different cover than what is shown here. However, it is certainly the Charter of the United Nations.

Great seller, great product. Item came early and as described.

Product is a very small handbook. It is simple and easy to use. Many sellers attempt to sell this for outrageous sums of money. Not worth more than 4 dollars as the information is free online.
